Police seeking clues

- ▶ RCMP release store video surveillance, missing jewelry photos in murdered teacher's case
- ▶ Family increases reward for help in solving the crime to $50,000

SHELLEY WILLIAMSON
@METRONEWS.CA

Spruce Grove RCMP are trying to retrace the final steps of a teacher found slain in her Parkland County home last October.

Jolene Cote was last seen on a surveillance video, leaving a west Edmonton store around 10:40 p.m. on Oct. 12.

Cote's husband found her dead in their Parkland County home at 6:05 a.m. the next day.

Investigators want to talk to anyone who may have seen Cote or her silver Jeep Liberty.

RCMP Sgt. Tim Taniguchi said investigators are probing if she was also robbed, as her wedding band, engagement ring and a diamond necklace are missing.

"It's a possibility, and we are open to anything at this point. We are not sure whether she had those items with her at the time, but her purchases were in her vehicle," he said.

Rhonda Berg said the family hopes a $50,000 reward will lead to her sister's killer.

Inset: Cote's missing wedding band.

"We all deserve to know whoever committed this crime is caught and not be able to harm anyone else," Berg said in a statement.

The family has doubled the reward they first offered in November.

How to help

- ▶ Donations are being accepted at an ATB for a memorial fund for Cote. A portion will be dedicated to a post-secondary education fund for her two young children.

- ▶ Anyone with information about Cote's whereabouts or activities on the night of Oct. 12 can call RCMP at 780-968-7267 or Crime Stoppers anonymously at 1-800-222-8477.
- ▶ Spruce Grove RCMP aren't saying if they have any suspects in the case.

A poster campaign to stop pharmacy theft

- Police hope to curb robberies through education
- Campaign targets would-be criminals and workers

SHELLEY WILLIAMSON
@METRONWS.CA

Edmonton police hope a poster campaign is the prescription to help shelve a robbery trend involving prescription drugs like Oxycontin.

"When it comes to pharmacy robberies we are seeing an emerging trend," said Sgt. Howard Kunce of the Edmonton Police Service's robbery section.

Though commercial crimes are down, city pharmacy robberies are on the rise, he said.

The campaign, now in its second year, asks people not to disguise themselves and encourages pharmacy owners to have video surveillance.

"It is frustrating to me as an administrator of a program that's been hit three times and they still don't have video," said Kunce. "Video is an extremely important aspect in solving these crimes."

EPS analyst Jared Hewko

said of 2011's 34 pharmacy robberies, 31 involved drugs and many also saw weapons used.

That, and the fact there is no real profile of who's hitting up pharmacies concerns police.

"They could be your average high school student, or a university-educated person," said Det. Regan Owen. "It doesn't appear the problem is going away."

Owen said another part of the "Storewatch" campaign is training staff not to resist robbers.

Watch out for...

- Police are asking pharmacy owners and staff to ask those seemingly in disguise, possibly to commit a crime, to remove hoods, sunglasses and hats while in the store.
- The posters, available to business owners, read "We're Watching You" and "Nice to See You," and encourage workers to be aware of those trying to alter appearances, and tell patrons to show their faces in stores.
- As Oxycontin is the most nabbed drug, as well as one of the most addictive, police are encouraging pharmacies to not keep it in stock and post stickers to that effect.

Abduction suspect posing as Santa sought

Edmonton police are looking for a 67-year-old suspect in two attempted child abductions.

David Warren Buchanan is described as having a salt-and-pepper beard. He drives a 2003 Chevrolet Impala and a 2011 Chrysler van.

On Jan. 23, police responded to 106 Avenue and 96 Street after a report that an older man asked a four-year-old girl if she wanted a ride with "Santa."

He is also sought in a 2010 incident at Kingsway Mall involving an eight-year-old girl. Call police if you have any information at 780-423-4567. ● METRO Authorities on the ground in Mexico say a Calgary woman beaten near death at a five-star resort is able to describe her attacker.

Sheila Nabb, 37, was found in a pool of her own blood last weekend inside an elevator at the Hotel Riu Emerald in Mazatlan.

Investigators have yet to formally interview her as she continues to recover from destructive facial injuries and pneumonia, but the area governor, Mario Lopez Valdez, said Thursday that she is able to recall what the individual looked like or even potentially identify the person by name. ● METRO

Relief for owners of lost homes

Compensation is on its way for those who lost their homes when they slid into the North Saskatchewan River valley back in 1999.

Rod and Muriel Skinner, Ruth and Ken Bowes, and Connie and Bob Reids took the city to court and lost after the river valley slope failed.

According to a city report recommended for approval by a committee this week, the owners recently approached the province, seeking relief under the Disaster Relief Fund.

They agreed to pay $1.35 million as long as the city writes off more than $500,000 in outstanding taxes.

Donations urged for displaced residents

► Need hits home for Edmonton Emergency Relief Services

► Sought-after items for fire victims include cash, furniture, towels, dishes

SHELLEY WILLIAMSON
@METRONEWS.CA

Edmonton Emergency Relief Services is asking people to step up with donations for dozens of residents displaced by a devastating apartment fire last week.

Though EERS spokesperson Heather McCallum said she is amazed already by Edmontonians' generosity since a massive blaze destroyed two-thirds of a Heatheridge Estates building a week ago, donations are still very much in demand to help residents rebuild.

"Last week was our first week and we were working on people's immediate needs. This week we are kicking into phase two," said McCallum.

Kitchen suites, dishes, coffee and end-tables and dressers are among items being accepted, as residents will have to furnish homes from scratch, she said.

McCallum estimates at least 30 people will turn to EERS after the Jan. 19 fire, possibly more. Cash is also being accepted, to purchase items that the aid organization can't take used.

"We hardly ever ask for financial donations, but there are some things we can't give used, like underwear," she explained.

McCallum reminds would-be donors to ensure items are in good condition — and that only what's requested be donated for now.

The source of the blaze responsible for causing $10 million in damage and leaving 92 residents without homes is not yet known.

Donations

► Edmonton Emergency Relief Services is open Monday to Friday 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. and those donating should ring the back doorbell during those hours.

► For more information, you can also call 780-428-

Students rewarded for smoking ban campaign

Kids can make a difference. That was the message Thursday at Afton School as grades 5 and 6 students from last year were awarded Blue Ribbon Awards from the Edmonton Tobacco Reduction Network.

The students researched information and gathered signatures before lobbying city councillors to ban smoking in areas where children are present.

"They were very excited and it was an opportunity to give the acclaim that they needed ... so that their peers could also see how kids can make a difference," said principal Jane Moore.

The students, along with many other speakers, relayed their message at city hall last June.

After much debate, council voted last September to amend the public places bylaw, which will mean butting out around playgrounds, spray parks, ice rinks and outdoor youth events once the new bylaw is approved.

It is expected to come before a council committee in early March.

Councillor wants more city control over cellphone towers

HEATHER MCINTYRE/METRO

► Cell towers, such as this one, can be found throughout Edmonton.

► 'It's time to update' a more than four-year-old policy, Leibovici says ► Councillor says Edmonton was a leader in creating policy, but now lags behind

HEATHER MCINTYRE
@METRONEWS.CA

Communication is key when it comes to cellphone towers, which is why one city councillor has asked for some dialogue.

Coun. Karen Leibovici wants to look at ways of updating Edmonton's policy for consultation between phone companies and residents, as a report was unveiled showing the city is behind in governing the towers when compared to Toronto, Calgary and Vancouver.

"Right now it is not very specific in how (companies) consult citizens and communicate, and in looking at what other jurisdictions are doing ... There are more requirements in other jurisdictions," Leibovici said Thursday.

On Wednesday, council's executive committee asked city administration to look into policy changes.

"We have a role there (and) we need a better policy to exercise that role," Coun. Ben Henderson said at the meeting.

Despite any changes that could come into effect when brought before council in June, decisions are up to Industry Canada.

Leibovici hopes there is a way to work more closely together, though.

"I want a report on whether the city could start to look at locations on public property and where (towers) could be built," she said. "That could potentially give us more control."

"But I don't know if it's feasible."

City's towers

- There are hundreds of cellphone towers in Edmonton, with more than a dozen applications made each year, the city said.
- Public consultation with residents must occur if a proposed structure will be taller than 15 metres.

Residents speak up

Cellphone towers have been a hot topic as residents in the Greenfield and Hazeldean communities, along with others, have recently spoken out against the infrastructure being built in their neighbourhoods.

Representatives from the two aforementioned communities spoke in front of the council committee Wednesday, pleading for improvements to public consultation. ● HEATHER MCINTYRE

► This Alberta sheriff's prisoner escort van was involved in a crash on the QEII Highway Thursday morning.

HEATHER MCINTYRE
@METRONEWS.CA

Nine prisoners and two Alberta sheriffs on their way to a Red Deer courthouse had to arrange for new transportation after their van collided with another vehicle and burst into flames.

Leduc RCMP were alerted to the scene just north of the Nisku exit on the Queen Elizabeth II Highway at 7:43 a.m. Thursday. The RCMP Integrated Traffic Unit, EMS and fire services also attended the scene.

According to Const. Jodi Heidinger, two southbound vehicles were involved in a crash, which a third vehicle tried to avoid by braking.

The prisoner van then collided with the third vehicle.

Despite the prisoner van suffering "extensive damage," RCMP said there were no injuries, though two prisoners were transported to hospital as a precautionary measure.

Heidinger said the crash caused traffic delays for approximately two hours.

"It was getting cleaned up by about 10:15 a.m.," she said, adding the incident is still under investigation.

No charges have been laid.

Deaths 'not an accident': Crown

FRANK GUNN/THE CANADIAN PRESS

► Lawyer delivers closing arguments in Shafia family trial ► Security issue spawns delay earlier in the day

The evidence against three people accused of killing half their family over honour is "irrefutable," a Crown attorney told the jury in the case in closing arguments that lasted well into the evening after a bomb threat delayed proceedings earlier Thursday.

Crown attorney Laurie Lacelle told the jury hearing the Shafia family murder trial that Mohammad Shafia, 58, his wife Tooba Yahya, 42, and their son Hamed, 21, were each responsible for planning and carrying out four murders, executed to get rid of family members causing them dishonour.

"Shafia, Tooba and Hamed had decided that there was a diseased limb on their family tree," she said. "Their decision was to trim the diseased limb and prune the tree back to the good wood." She urged the jury to find all three guilty in what the Crown has alleged is a quadruple honour killing of Shafia's three daughters and his other polygamous wife.

"You know this was not an accident — it was murder," Lacelle said at the end of her lengthy address. "They did what they each believed had to be done. Now it's your turn. Find them all guilty as charged. There is no other way."

It was one of the those heart-stopping moments every pilot who flew in Afghanistan feared — the dull thud of rounds hitting the helicopter and the smell of smoke.

But for Capt. William Todd Fielding, it wasn't some abstract concern and on Thursday he was awarded the country's third-highest valour decoration for what he did in the critical moments after the Taliban sprayed his CH-147 Chinook with gunfire.

Fielding was among seven members of the Canadian Forces to receive the Medal of Military Valour from Gov. Gen. David Johnston in a ceremony at Ottawa's Rideau Hall.

No coddling at Facebook

► What it's really like to work for Facebook founder Mark Zuckerberg

Mark Zuckerberg's former director of engineering says the Facebook CEO is not a pain in the ass to work with, but don't expect "emotional coddling."

Yishan Wong is giving the world a glimpse of the social-networking boy wonder on the question-and-answer website Quora, for which Wong is an advisor.

Wong worked at Facebook from 2005 to 2010, for much of that time in management roles when the company exploded into a major corporation from a small startup.

"He's a demanding CEO with a monomaniacal focus on making Facebook succeed in its mission," Wong wrote.

"He's a perfectly nice guy on a personal level; it's just that professionally, he is focused on getting it done and has a limited tolerance for emotional fragility in the people he needs to help him execute on that mission."

Great business leaders tend to have "a significant body count of ex-employees claiming that they were autocratic and mean," Wong pointed out.

Zuckerberg gives employees "ever-greater challenges to surmount," he said, which should be fine for an employee who is confident and emotionally secure.

If you're looking for a boss to develop you or who gives you confirmation or even acknowledgement of your opinions, Zuckerberg's not the guy for you, said Wong.

"He does have a touch of Asperger's," said Wong, referring to the disorder that robs people of social skills that he said accounts for Zuckerberg appearing to ignore people when they're talking.

"I would characterize him as tough but fair."

Facebook addicts get help at 'rehab'

A pair of entrepreneurs has created an online tool to target Facebook addicts, called FaceAnonymous.

"The first thing most young people do when they log in to a computer is to type an F," says Dan Penguin, co-founder of FaceAnonymous, the first "Facebook rehab."

Penguin and friend Siavosh Arasteh set up a website spreadsheet where people worldwide can record every time they logged in to Facebook.

Curt Dalton, CEO of Internet Time Machine, a company that analyzes web search words, says "Facebook" is the fastest growing addiction search after "gaming," and it is trending higher.

"The first step to fix an addiction is to become aware of the problem," Siavosh told Metro.

But Internet psychologist Graham Jones emphasizes that as Facebook addiction is so new, treatment is only experimental at this stage.

Its effects can be as damaging to young people as alcohol or cannabis.

- For decades they were considered more than weird: A Christian sect that practised polygamy
 ► Now the Mormons are in the spotlight, with one of their members having a good chance at becoming U.S. president ► Mormons have established themselves as an American success story

Mormonism's leap of faith

ELISABETH BRAW METRO WORLD NEWS

Karen Sorenson, 29, is a public relations executive in Los Angeles. She's also a Mormon, one of the fast-growing denomination's 14-million members.

"Where I was grew up (in San Diego) there weren't many Mormons," she tells Metro. "Kids in school would ask me questions like, 'How many moms do you have?' I had no idea why they'd ask such a thing until I realized that many people believed Mormons still practise polygamy."

Now, says Sorenson, things are very different: "I don't get questions about polygamy anymore. When people hear that I don't drink or smoke because I'm a Mormon, their reaction is usually, 'Wow, I could never do that.' My being a Mormon isn't a deal-breaker for them. It's like being a vegetarian."

Mormons are officially known as the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-Day Saints. Only half of Americans consider Mormonism a Christian religion, and some Evangelicals call it a cult.

"Mitt Romney is a good, moral person, but that does not make him a Christian," Baptist leader Robert Jeffress recently said. But according to a new survey by Pew, 63 per cent of Mormons say that acceptance is rising.

"In the academic environment of Boston, there's very little direct bias against us," says Patrick Turley, a 26-year-old PhD student at Harvard. "Sometimes people attribute beliefs to me that aren't true, but usually a short conversation clears it up."

"Romney has made us feel more mainstream," says Derek Morton, a 30-year-old realtor in Utah. As a teenager, Morton rebelled against his faith. "I felt like, 'I want to order beer, too,'" he says. "But now I feel that giving up things like alcohol has given me more freedom. I don't have to worry about going to jail for drunk driving."

Fifteen members of the United States Congress are Mormons. So are many business leaders, including Credit Suisse CEO Eric Varvel and JetBlue founder David Neeleman.

Behind the success: An army of more than 50,000 young Mormons who spend two years preaching their faith around the world, under often challenging circumstances. Even outsiders credit the Mormon missionary program. BusinessWeek calls it "God's MBA."

Romney was a missionary in France; Neeleman in Brazil. (Turley served in France and Sorenson in Lithuania.) Today the faith is growing especially fast in Latin America.

Whether Romney wins or not, says Corwin Smidt, a professor of political science at Calvin College in Michigan, he'll have done for Mormons what John F. Kennedy did for Catholics: Create greater social and political acceptance.

And Sorenson adds that being a Mormon doesn't necessarily mean voting for Romney: "I see him as just another person running for president. My family are Democrats."

► God's MBA is coming. An army of 50,000 missionaries is behind the success of Mormonism.

New Libyan rulers accused of torture

Canada urged to pressure country on new reports

The new leaders of Libya, helped to power by an air war waged by Canada and its major allies, were denounced as torturers Thursday by major international groups.

The Canadian leader of Amnesty International called on the Harper government to use its influence with Libya's new transitional government to end the abuse of prisoners, documented by the organization in a new report.

Doctors Without Borders said it was suspending work in Libyan prisons because of rampant torture of detainees. The group said it was pulling out of the city of Misrata because some detainees were brought for care only to make them fit for further interrogation.

Amnesty said several detainees have died after being subjected to torture, and cited widespread ill-treatment of loyalists of deposed dictator, Moammar Gadhafi. THE CANADIAN PRESS

New leadership

► Canada has stood firm behind Libya's new leadership both before and after Gadhafi was driven from power last year.

► Canada's air force was a major contributor to the NATO-led, United Nations-sanctioned aerial bombardment that helped the rebel militias overthrow Gadhafi.

► Amnesty said the torture is being carried out by "officially recognized military and security entities", as well as the many armed militias still active in the country.

Buildings. Collapse

► A 20-storey building collapsed in Rio de Janeiro Wednesday evening, causing the collapse of two other smaller ones.

Ottawa
rethinks securities
regulator

The federal government announced Thursday that it will head back to the drawing board following a court verdict that scuttled its original plans for a national securities regulator.

Ottawa still hopes to create a national body, more limited in scope and in collaboration with the provinces, that would play a role in monitoring long-term risks to financial markets.

Finance Minister Jim Flaherty delivered his most elaborate public reaction since last month's critical ruling by the Supreme Court of Canada.

That decision may have quashed the decade-old project to create a one-stop shop for the country's securities regulation.

"I hope ... we can make an arrangement with the provinces to proceed with a Canadian securities regulator," he said in an interview at the Davos economic summit. THE CANADIAN PRESS

Harper signals change

▶ Prime minister's speech at World Economic Forum hints at reforms for pensions and immigration ▶ Canada 'model of confidence,' Harper says

Ottawa will transform the country's pension system to curtail government costs, but details won't come until the budget, Prime Minister Stephen Harper said Thursday.

In a major speech at the World Economic Forum, Harper also signalled looming reforms in immigration and development — all in the name of ensuring Canada's economy is on a strong footing.

The idea, he said, is to position Canada as a more competitive force in the global economy and to confront the pressures of an aging population.

"In the months to come, our government will undertake major transformations to position Canada for growth over the next generation," Harper said in an address to several dozen of

Despite the immediate audience, the speech was aimed as much at voters back home as it was at international business and political leaders.

The prime minister also reiterated a commitment to streamline environmental approvals for major energy projects and said he would press ahead with developing ways to export energy to Asia.

He chided wealthy countries for being too complacent about ringing up debt that they cannot afford.

Harper said his government has worked to keep financial disorder out of Canada and is stepping up efforts to set the country on the right track for coming decades. THE CANADIAN PRESS

Boomers piling on too much debt: CIBC

Baby boomers and Canadians who can least afford it are the most responsible for statistics that show consumers are piling on too much debt, according to an analysis of household finances released Thursday by the CIBC.

The micro-examination of debt in Canada suggests the problem may be more serious than thought and sheds new light on Bank of Canada governor Mark Carney's statement last week that he is most worried about "vulnerable" households.

The raw numbers are bad enough. The ratio of household debt to disposable annual income has been rising steadily since 2007 and recently reached a record 153 per cent.

That puts Canadian households on the doorstep of the 160 per cent level, where Americans were prior to the housing collapse.

But as the CIBC report suggests, households in other countries, particularly Denmark, the Netherlands, Norway and Switzerland, have reached significantly higher thresholds without triggering a crisis.

"It's not only the amount of debt Canadians are carrying, but how many are getting close to the limit of their borrowing capacity," said CIBC chief economist Avery Shenfeld, co-author of the paper with economist Benjamin Tal.

The CIBC analysis showed one-third of debt carriers are already above the 160 per cent line and that they are responsible for about three-quarters of all the household debt in Canada. THE CANADIAN PRESS

Caterpillar protest goes national

► Company trying to ensure 'facility is competitive,' spokesperson says

ANGELA MULLINS

METRO CANADA IN LONDON, ONT.

As Caterpillar reported record financial results Thursday morning, Canadian Auto Workers across the country launched informational pickets to support the company's locked-out London employees.

Toromont — a CAT dealer with offices on Enterprise Drive in London, Ont. — was among the places union workers picked to hand out flyers. The scene was similar at dealers in about a dozen other cities spread across seven provinces, said Bob Scott, chairman of the CAW unit at Electro-Motive Diesel.

Caterpillar's firm financial footing hardly came as a surprise, Scott said. Most workers expected the company to make big profits. "It was just how much it was actually going to be," he said.

Caterpillar spokesman Jim Dugan declined a request for financial data specific to the company's locomotive plant in London.

Dugan did say the plant isn't "competitive in terms of its overall costs," including labour.

The contract offer that Electro-Motive workers rejected last month stemmed directly from that, he said. Union representatives have said it included deep wage cuts and other concessions.

The plant's structure shouldn't have come as a surprise to anyone at Caterpillar, Scott said.

"When they purchased the facility (in 2010) they knew what the contract was," Scott said. "That plant has always made money."

Profits up, but cuts continue at CP

Canadian Pacific Railway, under fire from a dissident investor who wants major changes at the company, said Thursday it remains focused on cutting costs.

"We are making great strides in enhancing our efficiency and we are starting to see the payoffs from the network enhancements and process improvements that are underway," CP president and chief executive Fred Green said.

"We have improved customer confidence and we will continue to take costs out of the system while maintaining and improving service levels across our network."

The Calgary-based railway earned $221 million, or $1.30 per share for the quarter ended Dec. 31, compared with a profit of $186 million a year ago, or $1.09 per share.

Excluding a $37-million one-time gain on taxes, CP said it earned $184 million or $1.08 per diluted share for its most recent quarter.

Canadian Pacific has been under fire from William Ackman and his firm Pershing Square Capital, the railway's largest shareholder, who is pushing for new members on the railway's board of directors and a new chief executive.

Ackman wants former Canadian National Railway Co. chief executive Hunter Harrison to take over at the helm at CP over the objections of CP's board.

'AMERICA'S BACK' SPEECH CAN'T SAVE SINKING SHIP

THE METRO LIST

MIKE BENHAIM
METRO

My resolution this New Year's Eve was to be less cynical. Oh well, four weeks still beats last year's record.

1 Research in (slow) Motion: RIM appointed a new CEO in an attempt to revive dying BlackBerry's in a world of iPhones and Androids. His name is Thorsten Heins, but he may as well be Thurston Howell III, because all the money in the world ain't getting him off that island.

2 Muddled Voyage: The man that drove his car through the Waterloo, Ont., police station last November was apparently sentenced to a year of community service ... as captain of a cruise ship. Oops!

3 Political Hubris: Stephen Harper finally met with delegates at the World Economic Forum this week. He rebuked European leaders for being fiscally irresponsible, and cited Canada as the role model. He referenced our medicare system which, in hard times, assures Canadians the same unsatisfactory services they've come to expect, at no additional cost.

4 Idol Setback: American Idol is back for its 11th season, and the first individual voted off is Steven Tyler for his rendition of The Star Spangled Banner.

5 Sexy Spinsters: Ladies, if you are unattached, attractive, and believe in love at first sight with a stranger who will also be dating 25 other women on national TV, then I've got great news — The Bachelor is coming to Canada! The not-so-great news is that you are probably desperate and have low self-esteem. But good luck!

6 Love on the Rocks: Another celebrity breakup hit the news wire this week as German model Heidi Klum is divorcing R&B singer Seal. My immediate reaction to the news was, "Those two were married?"

7 Spoiler Alert: Academy Award nominees were unveiled this week, and I want to prepare for my Oscar pool by identifying this year's pretentiously touted film that no one actually wants to watch, à la English Patient or King's Speech, and bet on that.

8 Ice Dreams: Bruins goalie Tim Thomas ignited controversy by refusing to join the NHL champs who were invited to appear at the White House this week. Thomas stated that he had become disillusioned with the government, whose actions over the past few years, he feels, have been counter-constitutional. On the other hand, he still blames his parents for never providing figure-skating lessons.

9 God Save the School: Dr. Alisun Pawley, a musicologist from the University of York in England, concluded in a recent study that the Canadian national anthem was not very "sing-along-able." My first question is, "Who funded this study, and why?" Second question is, "Should a university professor be using a word like 'sing-along-able'?"

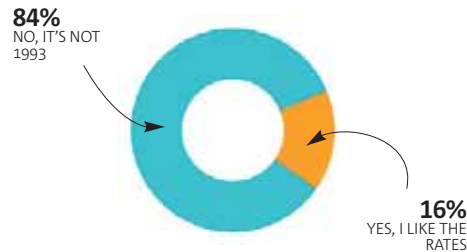

10 American Delusions: The U.S. prez showed us once again that "Campaign Obama" is far better at his job than "President Obama." His "America's back" speech was shrewdly more feeling than fact. If the country were a business, I'd suspect he was getting ready to sell to China, but that's just silly ... or is it?

New image of Earth captured

SNAP. It's our blue planet, like we've never seen before. Nasa's latest "Blue Marble" photograph is the most high-resolution image of Earth ever captured. This picture was taken on Jan. 4 from Suomi NPP, Nasa's most recently launched Earth-observing satellite, the first in a new series of such devices. ● MWNN 824 kilometres — the distance above Earth this photograph was taken. This new high-resolution image displays about 1.6 kilometres per pixel.

HISTORY. The original "Blue Marble" photo was taken by the Apollo 17 crew on Dec. 7, 1972, from a distance of about 45,000 kilometres. It was the first opportunity to photograph the south polar ice cap. It was originally taken upside down due to the way the astronauts were then travelling. ● MWNN

Synopsis

Liam Neeson plays John Ottway, a sharpshooter hired to keep predatory wolves out of an oil station in the remotest part of Alaska. He becomes the leader of a ragtag group of survivors when the plane transporting them to their oil job crashes in the wilderness. Hunted by wolves and exposed to the elements, Ottway's know-how is the only thing between freezing to death or, worse, becoming the big bad wolf's dinner.

Richard: Chris, the thing that separates The Grey from other man-versus-nature movies is the characters. At first glance they are the usual assortment of rough and ready characters: the edgy chatterbox, the ex-con. But soon nuances appear. They shed tears and even recite poetry when not fighting off steely-eyed wolves. Most action movies are only concerned about setting up the action and the payoff. The Grey isn't. It wants you to get to know the men so when something awful happens to them, you care.

Chris: That's what I found so disarming about the picture, that lyricism. The trailer certainly leads you to believe that it's all about Neeson suiting up with busted bottle fingertips, growling and boxing toothy timber-wolves. And while we DO get that, its strength is that tapestry of characters and how instead of becoming more savage as their situation becomes more desperate, they become more human. This is as much Hemingway as it is horror show. Speaking of horror ... what did you think about those wolves? Did you buy it?

RC: For me the wolves were the least interesting part of the movie. They make for cunning foes, but Neeson's Wolf Whisperer character defanged some of the horror because he understood and was able to explain their behaviour. A dose of unpredictability might have been scarier for me. Having said that, I still wouldn't want to meet up with any of the movie's wolves, no matter how much CGI was involved.

CA: Ahhhh...I loved them. Of course, they are not based in reality by any stretch. But that's OK, neither was Bruce the Shark in Jaws. The wolves are death itself, stalking the men, toying with them, picking them off randomly and without warning in novel and gruesome ways. On that tip, The Grey is kind of the spiritual sister to the Final Destination films. OK, that may be a stretch, but the wolves and their almost supernatural presence really do push the film into an almost surreal area that I liked. And I'd be willing to bet some viewers won't like them for that very reason...

RC: The wolves, I guess, are the film's hook, but for me it's all about the characters. Come for the wolves! Stay for the characters!

CA: Well, whether it be wolves, sensitive manly men or a glimpse into the snowy hell that we've mercifully been spared this year, The Grey is spectacular entertainment.

One for the Money

Genre:

Action/Comedy
Director: Julie Anne Robinson
Stars: Katherine Heigl, Jason O'Mara

Based on Janet Evanovich's popular Stephanie Plum novels, One for the Money casts Katherine Heigl as an unemployed Jersey girl who desperately takes a job as a bounty hunter, which soon tracking down her lover. If the sounds overwhelm you until you witness the final, cynical character dialogue and the line that struts threadbare action comedy.

Evanovich fans may be curious but Julie Anne Robinson's (Grey's Anatomy) adaptation, but it never really comes together.

Monsieur Lazhar

Genre: Comedy/Drama

Director: Philippe Falardeau

Stars: Fellag, Sophie Nelisse

 $\textcircled{\bullet}\textcircled{\bullet}\textcircled{\bullet}^{1/2}$

Philippe Falardeau's Oscar-nominated drama about an Algerian immigrant (Fellag) who unexpectedly takes over a Montreal elementary school class is smoothly directed and beautifully acted: the rapport between this unlikely educator and his charges is natural and unaffected. But the script, adapted from a play by Evelynne de la Cheneliere, is a little too on-the-nose, resulting in a film that's at once completely accomplished and kind of an open-and-shut case. ADAM NAYMAN

Surviving Progress

Genre: Documentary

Directors: Mathieu Roy,
Harold Crooks

Stars: Stephen Hawking, Jane Goodall, David Suzuki

Adapted from Ronald Wright's bestselling Massey Lecture and featuring an array of spooked talking heads holding forth on the dire state of our globalized society, Surviving Progress is what might be called a big-picture documentary.

It's heady stuff, and also very talky, which is why the slick, inventive visuals by the directors are so necessary.

Man on a Ledge

Genre: Thriller

Director: Asger Leth

Stars: Sam Worthington, Elizabeth Banks

An effectively simple premise is ruined by endless convolutions in Man on a Ledge, which casts Sam Worthington as an ex-con who has mysteriously and perilously planted himself on the wrong side of a Manhattan hotel penthouse. Elizabeth Banks is good as the police psychologist assigned to talk him down, but Asger Leth's stilted, uneven direction fails to effectively balance their tête-à-tête against the heist-movie machinations that take over in the second half and consign Man on Ledge to forgettable thriller-of-the-week territory.

Drew's Big Miracle

► Drew Barrymore learns that a few whales can get stakeholders to put their agendas aside for a little while

NED EHRBAR
SCENE@METRONEWS.CA
METRO WORLD NEWS IN HOLLYWOOD

Maybe this won't come as a surprise to many, but Drew Barrymore found it pretty easy to get into the mind of the Greenpeace crusader she plays in Big Miracle. "I spent a lot of time — a lot of time — with Cindy Lowery, the woman I play in the film," Barrymore says of her preparation for the part. (The character on screen goes by the name Rachel Kramer, though.) "And she's just rad and a total badass and super-cool and fun, and we really actually connected, which is the way you hope it will be, but maybe it will and maybe it won't. But we were like two peas in a pod. It was great."

Big Miracle tells a true tale about all types of people — feuding news anchors, Inuit natives, oil tycoons, even the Russian navy — coming together to help three gray whales trapped under the arctic ice off northern Alaska, cutting off their migration and threatening their lives. It wasn't just the natural drama of the story but also the amazing camaraderie involved in the rescue that attracted Barrymore to the project. "I just think seeing this story and living in it, you just appreciate that everybody put their agendas aside for a second to work on the same thing, and it's sort of peeling away the layers," she says. "I liked when I got to say to [Ted Danson's oil executive] character in the film, 'You're not as hard to hate as I thought.' I just liked that moment and thought what it would be like if you actually were stuck and got to know the people that you thought you were so different from."

While the Greenpeace crusader Barrymore plays in the film starts off shouting through a megaphone at a city council meeting, she doesn't want Big Miracle to have that level of preachiness. The goal, she says, was "making it personal rather than, like, soapbox-y — which I hope this film achieves or is good at. It's amazing how it touches on so many things that could be different today if they were different back then, but it doesn't do it in like a preachy, in-your-face kind of way. So I think the more you do speak from the heart rather than thumping the agenda... I just think that that's where people listen."

► In Big Miracle, Drew Barrymore plays a Greenpeace crusader trying to save three gray whales.

Not getting jaded

► Starting in entertainment as an infant, Drew Barrymore has had a long Hollywood career, considering she's only 36. And while she's found tremendous success in adulthood, the actress, writer, director and producer finds that the tough times are the key to keeping herself grounded. "I mean, it's just a choice, I suppose," she says of not taking success for granted.

"I've also experienced in life that it really can all go away, so that was a wonderful thing to experience because then you really do appreciate what you have. So I've experienced a bit of both, which is really such a blessing."

Voldemort's 'accessible modern Shakespeare'

STEVE GOW
SCENE@METRONEWS.CA

Lord Voldemort has made his own movie. Or at least his alter-ego Ralph Fiennes has.

After two decades starring in some of Hollywood's most celebrated films, the lauded thespian behind Harry Potter's nemesis has turned out his directorial debut with a contemporary, challenging adaptation of Shakespeare's Coriolanus. Metro caught up with the actor recently to discuss the upcoming drama.

What was your approach in your debut behind the camera?

First of all, I was just motivated by an obsession with this story and the role. Why someone decides this is what they want to do I don't know — I've not analyzed it too closely but I just wanted it to be an accessible modern Shakespeare.

► A scene from the film Coriolanus.

Why did you think Coriolanus would make good modern adaptation?

I think there are so many things in it. (It) exposes a political and social dysfunction and I believe we're living in a time where everything is up for questioning and the systems we thought worked are not working.

And Coriolanus starts with the people protesting. Everything's crumbling.

You've worked with some great directors. Were there tricks from other filmmakers you borrowed from?

The best experiences I've had have been collaborative ones where I feel I've been included and that's a great feeling. Someone like Anthony Minghella (The English Patient) would do that and Neil Jordan (The End of the Affair) to some extent. But I was eager to bring everyone's ideas to the table which is what I learned from someone particularly like Anthony Minghella.

Any other Shakespeare plays you'd like to tackle on the big-screen?

Oh yes, loads. I'm afraid I'm slightly a Shakespeare junkie.

There are a clutch of Shakespeare roles that I would love to tackle.

Common explains his Drake rap feud

► The rapper/actor says there is nothing left to say on the brief battle
► Despite that, Common goes out of his way to name names on a track

CHRIS PIZZELLO/THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Sundance Film Festival became the unlikely centre of hip hop's latest feud when actor-turned-rapper Drake and rapper-turned-actor Common came to town.

Common was promoting his role in upcoming family drama LUV, while Drake was performing at one of the many late-night parties.

The two have traded insults recently via their raps, but Common said he didn't want to say anything else about Drake not in rhyme form.

"I feel like I said everything I really needed to say on the record. I just looked at it as like 'Hey, it's just a hip hop battle,'" he explained in an interview this week.

COMMON

Common had the most recent entry into the battle, by adding his verse to a Rick Ross song and naming Drake directly — a move that the Chicago native said he felt obligated to make.

"Ice Cube, when he was going at N.W.A., once he left N.W.A., you knew who it was. Jay-Z and Nas — Jay-Z said, 'Smarten up, Nas.' And you just knew. Cats would say names," he continued.

"So that's just the way that I feel like you've got to do it. I don't want to leave anything — I don't want anybody else to think I'm talking about them. I want you to know, 'Hey this is who I'm talking to.'"

Common, known more lately for his acting than his rapping, started the battle with a song called Sweet on his new album, The Dreamer/The Believer.

"He (Drake) felt offended by it. And the song is really discussing how hip hop has a softer side," said Common.

"And I made it clear that I'm not talking about anyone specifically. For me it was no different than when Jay-Z addressed with DOA, he was talking about Auto-Tune."

SONGS FOR THAT LONG, LONG RIDE

SOUND CHECK

ALAN CROSS
SCENE
@METRONEWS.CA

It used to be that the length of a song was limited by the maximum capacity of the recording media.

With 78s, you couldn't have a track much more than four minutes.

To get six on a 45 was pushing it. An LP? Probably maxed out at around 24 minutes. Cassettes could be pushed to 60 minutes. A CD starts to get cranky after 75 minutes.

But in the world of electronic media, there's no limit to how long a recording can be. Naturally, some people are interested in exploring the limits of this.

Chris Butler, the composer who wrote Christmas Wrapping for the Waitresses, had his 68 minute, 500-verse song The Devil Glitch nominated for a Grammy in 1998.

He's since expanded it to two hours and 53 minutes and renamed it The Major Glitch.

Not content with releasing a six hour song called I Found This Star on the Ground, The Flaming Lips issued the 24-hour-long 7 Skies H3 on a USB key set inside a real human skull. They sold all 13 copies for $5,000 each.

But then we come to Daniel Starr-Tambor, who has written a piece called Mandala.

It's complicated, but it involves in assigning each planet in the solar system a music note and harnessing the rhythmic elements of our corner of the universe. From there, it gets complicated.

But the numbers are mind-boggling. Using these parameters and the 62 vigintillion individual notes (that's 62 followed by 63 zeroes) available, Mandala will last 532,250,000,000,000,000,000,000 years. And once it's over, it's time for the extended dance mix, of course.

Former Idol trying for image change

► Pickler grows up, goes traditional and gets personal on her new album

Kellie Pickler wants you to know she's a traditional gal — and she's making it very clear with her new album, 100 Proof.

The platinum blonde American Idol alum is pulling back from the pop-country tunes that once defined her, like Red High Heels and Best Days Of Your Life, and replacing them with ones that reflect her traditional country roots. The album was released this week.

"I guess it's been like three-and-a-half years since my last record came out. ... So a lot has happened in my life. I'm married. I've grown up a lot, because when I started this I was 19 and green when I did my first record, Small Town Girl," said Pickler. "So much has happened in my life. Most of it is on the record."

Pickler, 25, took cues from her musical heroes, the big wigs of women in country music. The opening track even name checks one of those legends in Where's Tammy Wynette.

"I love Tammy Wynette. She's a big reason why I fell in love with country music. You wouldn't know that if you listened to (my

As for the rest of the album, Pickler doesn't lose her sassy personality.

Pickler wrote more on this album than in the past, penning six of the 11 songs. Two are very personal and reflect her separate, complicated relationships with her mother and father.

Modern-day minstrel

► More Manitoba: Weakerthans' Samson in familiar territory on solo disc

Usually, a solo debut is an opportunity for an established artist to do something different, free of the co-operative constraints of a band. But the Weakerthans' John K. Samson just wound up writing another album about Winnipeg.

That's not to say that the intricate lyricism of Provincial is a lateral move for Samson, but doesn't Manitoba's foremost modern-day minstrel ever get sick of being so closely associated with his hometown?

"I was talking to my sister yesterday and I told her I was going to Toronto to do some interviews, and she said: 'Oh, you're off to talk about Winnipeg, are you?'" the personable songwriter recalled with a laugh during an interview earlier this week.

"You know, frankly, I'm OK with that. (Winnipeg) is my theme. A lot of writers have things that they return to. It's something I'm trying to get right, and I don't think I have yet."

And Provincial represents Samson's most concerted attempt yet at capturing the unique dimensions of his hometown in song.

The album was released across all platforms this week.

Fringe coming to an end?

SCI-FI SHOW HANGS ON. Ominous comments from a Fox executive have Fringe fans fretting that their beloved show could be similarly coming to an end soon. 'Happy Valentine's! Love, Jon Hamm'

HEIDI PATALANO
SCENE@METRONEWS.CA
METRO WORLD NEWS IN NEW YORK

The minute those Christmas decorations come down, inevitably the Valentine's Day hearts and cupid's go up. Singletons surely dread it, but there's a way to cheer up them and/or the Mad Men fetishist in your life.

JD Beebe designed the Hamm-o-gram "to make anyone lonely on Valentine's Day forget about their moody blues."

For five dollars, you can have a personalized card — not an e-card — picturing Mad Men star Jon Hamm, mailed to a soon-to-be deliriously grateful recipient.

And guess what? Not only will you be bringing the joy of hot Hamm to others, you'll also be donating to charity.

Beebe explains: "I came up with the idea easily enough — Jon Hamm rhymes with gram (brilliant I know) — but I do like my silly projects to do some good. In an effort to be philanthropic and not get sued by the Hamm brigade, I chose A Caring Hand (for bereaved children and families) as a charity partner."

This was simply because Mr. Hamm actually lost his parents at a young age, and since I couldn't find any charities that he himself donated to I wanted to make it personal enough that he might see the good in it."

Everyone wins with the Hamm-o-gram. Could Charlie Day Chocolates be next?

Simply go to hammogram.com to order your own Hamm-o-gram for Valentine's Day.

► Glee gal Lea Michele is livin' large, surrounded by Candie's fancy things
► Former brand spokeswomen include Fergie and Britney Spears

Lea Michele is moving from a locker to a much bigger closet. She's the star of the new Candie's ad campaign, dubbed Hanging at Home, shot at a private mansion in Beverly Hills.

The images show her poolside, in the kitchen, in a bed with satin sheets and in a walk-in closet, wearing a new outfit and pair of shoes in each one.

The 25-year-old star of Glee is following in the high-heel footprints of former brand spokeswomen Britney Spears and Fergie, among others.

Michele says she particularly liked Spears' old ads.

"I think they're fun and flirty and show off her body great."

Michele does a little showing off here, too, with some sexy poses, some silly poses and some glamorous ones.

Anyone who has seen Michele do a turn on the red carpet knows she has her moves down for the camera. She has become a "get" for designers eager to show off their gowns on a hot young starlet.

At the recent Golden Globes, she wore a silver Marchesa gown that was straight from the runway.

Her sentimental favourite gown, though, was probably the one she wore to her first Globes in 2010: a black, strapless Os-

What was your wardrobe like in high school?

My wardrobe in high school was very simple. Jeans and maybe a sweatshirt and sneakers.

I love wide-leg, high-waisted pants. If done the right way, they're very chic. Is there a trend you wish would go away? Feathers in people's hair!

► Suits star Patrick J. Adams 'blown away' by SAG nomination
► Plays a cocky but brilliant con artist-turned-lawyer
► TO-bred actor was on the verge of quitting

He's a little-known actor from a little-known series from a little-known network.

And yet somehow Toronto-bred performer Patrick J. Adams broke through the noise to score one of Hollywood's most coveted honours — a Screen Actors Guild nomination for best actor in a TV drama series.

The star of USA Network's legal dramedy Suits, which airs on Bravo in Canada, marvels over the A-list company he's suddenly keeping as part of an elite group being honoured at a glitzy televised bash Sunday.

Fellow nominees include Steve Buscemi of Boardwalk Empire, Kyle Chandler of Friday Night Lights, Bryan Cranston of Breaking Bad and Michael C. Hall of Dexter.

"I think it was a surprise to everybody but a surprise to no one more than me," Adams says of his inclusion on such an auspicious list.

It's been a year of many firsts for the affable 30-year-old, whose career has ignited with his turn as a cocky but brilliant con artist-turned-lawyer on Suits.

Adams is also set to appear on the hotly anticipated horse-track drama Luck, debuting Sunday on HBO Canada, as a financial wizard who works closely with gangster Ace Bernstein, played by Dustin Hoffman.

The Canuck's first industry nomination (and his first chance to wear a tuxedo, he points out) is all the more remarkable given that he was on the verge of quitting the business not too long ago.

Less than a year before getting Suits, Adams says he was fired from NBC's be-

Adams' ambition

Patrick J. Adams' bid for stardom started at age 19, when he left Toronto to study theatre at the University of Southern California.

► One of his first gigs out of school was the ABC Family movie Christmas in Boston. It was shot in Toronto.

leagued summer sitcom Friends With Benefits (he was replaced with Ryan Hansen of Party Down). That humiliation capped a decade of guest starring roles on "basically every television show ever made," he says from his home in Los Angeles.

"I was in that typical actor position where I was ready — I had my bags packed and my ticket out of town — to just go and figure out how to become a community theatre actor in Toronto or something," he notes.

"I was done with the rat race and thought that me being fired was a definite sign that I just sort of wasn't built for the business. And then something like this happens and here I am... going to this awards show on Sunday."

THE CANADIAN PRESS

"I think I'm still unpacking all of my feelings about it. On the one hand I'm still so blown away and still don't quite believe that it happened but on the other hand I'm really trying to own it and find a way to be like, 'Yeah, OK. You do good work and you work hard and you deserve this.'" PATRICK J. ADAMS

Warning: Will act if there are aliens involved

► Former Friday Night Lights star takes to the world of sci-fi ► B.C.-born actor appears in two big films this year

The Friday Night Lights are far beyond Taylor Kitsch now. These days, if he sees something bright on the horizon, chances are it is extraterrestrial.

"That's how I pick my roles," the 30-year-old British Columbia-born actor explained. "Wait, is there aliens in it? Oh well, why am I doing it, why would you call me if there are no aliens in it? That's basically how it goes."

He's joking, but it's true. Kitsch has leading roles in two big movies this year — Battleship and John Carter — that will see him leave the small town Texas football scene of the critically acclaimed FNL TV series for the big screen world of sci-fi.

First up is Disney's interpretation of Edgar Rice Burroughs' novel, released in March. John Carter sees Kitsch play a former military captain who is transported to Mars, a planet being torn apart by war.

It's directed by Andrew Stanton — of Finding Nemo and WALL-E fame — who is helping his first live-action movie.

Carter gets caught up in the conflicts and jumps in to battle with a sword, loin cloth and plenty of muscle. Kitsch said Stanton insisted on a grueling regimen to get him mentally and physically prepared.

"It's the most boring diet you could think of, really. It was four months before and seven months during, so an 11-month regimen with that. Good times," he told The Associated Press in an interview.

"Training at 4:30 in the morning before you go to work, and then training for the four months before as well. And then during the day, you're training as well before takes."

But he said it was portraying Carter's feelings that really drained him.

"I'd say the emotion is probably the toughest thing. It's quite heavy some of the stuff he goes through," he said.

After that, it's Peter Berg's Battleship, which also stars Liam Neeson, Alexander Skarsgard and features Rihanna in her movie debut. Loosely based on the classic naval combat game from Hasbro, it sees five ships take on another five ships from a different planet.

The Canadian actor says he really enjoyed collaborating with his old FNL executive producer Berg on his Battleship role of naval officer Lt. Alex Hopper. There are still aliens but this time instead of a dusty planet there's a lot of ocean. Kitsch says he found his sea legs pretty quickly, which was good because the crew spent several weeks shooting on the water and some scenes had him blown straight into the ocean.

"So many variables come into play, obviously time consuming, you're always fighting the light apparently when you're shooting outside," he noted.

Still, Kitsch was very happy with the result.

"It's seamless the way they've done it," he said.

► Kristen Bell is happy about her return to television in the new comedy House of Lies ► The show debuts Sunday night on Showtime Kristen Bell is such a fan of Homeland that she just had to tell the cast of the hit Showtime drama at a recent party.

"I felt at one point one of them kind of take a step back like, 'She's a little intense,' and then I got insecure like, 'Oh, no, you're THAT person,'" she relates.

Now Bell is sharing a network with her favourite show with her new series, House of Lies, about a management consulting firm that specializes in damage control. The show debuts Sunday night at 10 p.m. EST on Showtime.

The 31-year-old Bell first wowed critics playing a teen private investigator on the smart series Veronica Mars, which debuted in 2004 and aired for three seasons.

The film industry took notice and began casting her in such movies as Forgetting Sarah Marshall and Couples Retreat. She also narrates Gossip Girl as the show's title character.

Bell realized she missed TV but wanted to do something edgier than anything she had done before. She also liked the idea of being part of an ensemble cast. She found what she was looking in House of Lies.

The blistering comedy stars Don Cheadle as a slick, ruthless management consultant. Bell plays the ambitious Jeannie, who loves the high life but can flirt with the low life.

"If he's a great actor he's an even cooler person and I don't think there's a ton of people you can say that about," Bell says about Cheadle. "But he's a really genuine, grounded, nice, funny guy."

Bell is engaged to Dax Shepard, who co-stars on the drama Parenthood on NBC. The two recently produced and starred in a film together called Outrun, which is expected to hit theatres next summer.

"We actually grew closer by spending every single minute together for about nine weeks," she says.

"We drove to work together and we came home together. ... It's very organic for us to spend every moment together. We're severely co-dependent. It's a disease!"

► Actress' trip to hospital caused by inhalant, according to report

THE WORD

SCENE@METRONWS.CA

This is a hard one to really believe: The substance that reportedly put Demi Moore in the hospital was nitrous oxide, a gas most commonly used in dentist's offices and whipped cream cans that is also popular on the concert tailgating scene, according to TMZ.

A friend of Moore's reportedly called 911 after the actress had an adverse reaction to a "whippet," a small canister of nitrous oxide that can be inhaled. But friends say the most recent incident — which landed Moore in rehab — was just the latest in a long downward slide.

"Really, it was over the last year her friends saw a change," the source tells People magazine.

"She wasn't sleeping as well, didn't seem to be eating and looked really gaunt."

Whatever it was, Moore was released from the hospital yesterday.

There's no word on her next steps. But let's hope she'll take better care of herself — and will stay clear from any Disco Biscuit concerts in the near future.

Oprah a godmother to Blue Ivy Carter?

Beyoncé Knowles and Jay-Z have reportedly decided they want Oprah Winfrey to be their newborn daughter's godmother, according to Media Takeout.

A source close to the couple says they wanted

As for the little girl's godfather, the new parents have reportedly asked Jay-Z's best friend, Tyran "Ty Ty" Smith.

Can I get a 'D' for drunk?

There's a reason Pat Sajak and Vanna White were able to act excited every time a correct letter was guessed on The Wheel of Fortune — They were sloshed.

On ESPN's Dan Le Batard is Highly Questionable radio show Tuesday, Sajak told the host that back in the '80s, he and Vanna would down margaritas between shows and then stumble back to the set.

"Vanna and I would ... have two or three or six and then come and do the last shows and have trouble recognizing the alphabet.

► Wheel of Fortune host Pat Sajak

They're really good tapes to get a hold of. I had a great time," Sajak said.

"I have no idea if the shows were any good, but no one said anything, so I guess I did OK."

But rest assured. Now that he's been hosting for more than 30 years (and is 65 years old) he's not on the sauce while handing out cars and cash prizes.

"I would be hesitant to have anything to drink now," he said.

So, now that we understand how Pat and Vanna got through the drudgery that was daily game show hosting back in the day, does anyone else wonder what Alex Trebek is on? Whippets? Or is that just Demi Moore's game?

Winter grilling

Barbecuing isn't just for summer days. Try these winter tips:

- Always pre-heat your barbecue to 400 to 450 (f) at minimum, and adjust from there.
- Cooking times may change with cold; always use an instant read thermometer.
- Grill with the lid down — heat loss on a cold day is significantly greater than a warm summer day.

Though no slouch in the unique grape varieties or colourful winemaking characters departments, South African wines still get the short end of the corkscrew from consumers.

Some of it is South Africa's fault (it never put forward a public personality for its wines) and some is Canadian wine buyers' fault (who talk a good game about wanting wines with personality then turn their noses up at anything that isn't from mass market).

The vineyards around Cape Town are arguably the most beautiful in the world, producing classically South African fruit in the form of chenin blanc and pinotage as well as familiar grapes like shiraz and sauvignon blanc.

If you're intrigued but still scared of drinking outside your comfort zone, South Africa is the new home of the most popular white grape on the liquor landscape: Pinot Grigio.

The 2011 Flat Roof Manor Pinot Grigio ($10.95 - $12.99) is a grape-forward PG from Stellenbosch with a modern look and hint of tropical fruit that matches creamy pasta sauces. PRICES REFLECT THE RANGE ACROSS CANADA. SOME PRODUCTS MAY NOT BE AVAILABLE IN ALL PROVINCES.

- Chara shows loyalty to Bruins Thomas and Seguin
- San Jose's Couture goes last overall

Captain Zdeno Chara picked Detroit forward Pavel Datsyuk first overall and then turned to Bruins teammate Tim Thomas in goal in the NHL all-star fantasy draft Thursday night.

Rival skipper Daniel Alfredsson chose his fellow Senators in the early going.

The Ottawa captain, who lost the puck flip to pick first, chose Senators defenceman Erik Karlsson second and Jason Spezza fourth overall. He took Ottawa forward Milan Michalek 24th.

Chara also stayed at home with the third pick, taking Thomas. He rescued Bruins forward Tyler Seguin with the 35th selection.

went 15th overall to Team Chara.

The last man standing this year was San Jose forward Logan Couture, who had earlier tweeted: "Is it me or is it getting hotter back here after every pick?"

He went to Team Alfredsson by default as the 38th player taken. Couture got a Honda Accord for his troubles and the NHL and NHL Player's Association also donated $10,000 each to a charity of his choice.

Chara ignored players from the rival Canucks, but was quick to welcome Thomas into the fold.

The star goalie has been in the spotlight this week, after opting not to join the Bruins in a visit to the White House, citing political objections.

On stage after being picked, Thomas said simply: "I followed my conscience." THE CANADIAN PRESS

♌ Leo July 23-Aug. 23

It may seem as if you're dancing to someone else's tune but you're always free to make the decisions.

♍ Virgo Aug. 24-Sept. 22

♎ Libra Sept. 23-Oct. 23

Start something that gets you noticed. If you can put a name to your dream, you can live it too.

♏ Scorpio Oct. 24-Nov. 22

Sacrifices will have to be made, especially on the home front where loved ones just can't seem to get things right on their own.
